A street scene in Andermatt, Switzerland. On the left is a multi-story wooden building with numerous windows, each with a white balcony box overflowing with red flowers. A Swiss flag is visible on the left side. The building's facade has the text "Hotel zur Sonne" written in a stylized font. In front of the building, there are several tables covered with yellow tablecloths and chairs, suggesting an outdoor cafe. A person is standing near a yellow signpost. To the right, a white building with a tall, green-roofed spire is visible. A large, ornate sun-shaped sign hangs from the building. The street is paved with cobblestones.
