

LYRATH ESTATE

FACT SHEET

Perfectly positioned in the heart of the medieval city of Kilkenny and located on 170 acres of mature parkland, the property offers all the charm of an old world, country Estate combined with the very best in contemporary facilities and luxuries. The hotel itself has been built around an elegant 17th century manor house which has been returned to its former glory through sympathetic preservation and now features lots of the original fittings and furniture. The drama of the old house and the clean, contemporary design of the new hotel are blended seamlessly.

Lyrath Estate 17th Century Manor House History

The original house at Lyrath Estate is considered to be the most important surviving country house of famous architect John McCurdy and was reconstructed by Sir Charles Wheeler - Cuffe to appease his prospective father in law, Lord Stuart de Decies who felt that it was not grand enough for his daughter, Pauline and would not permit her to marry Wheeler Cuffe until the house was deemed impressive enough. To that effect the house was reconstructed, and Sir Charles went on to marry Pauline. However, the story goes that the reconstruction put the unfortunate Sir Charles into terrible debt and his wife in fact never got over an earlier love affair with a Scottish railway engineer.

Why Stay at Lyrath Estate?

At the 5-star Lyrath Estate attention to detail is key throughout. From international service, indulgent pampering treats, first class events and entertainment venues, an award winning spa, exciting on-site outdoor pursuits and activities to sumptuous food and wine.

All 141 air-conditioned bedrooms offer splendid views, be they over the Estate or its manicured historical gardens. Many of the rooms have sun terraces or balconies. Guests may choose between deluxe rooms, executive rooms, luxury suites, our penthouse, or the traditional rooms found within the 17th Century Manor House. Each room is located away from the main area of the hotel.

Accommodation rooms come standard with Nespresso coffee making machines, tea making facilities, bathrobes, slippers, flat screen TV's, trouser press, digital safes, blackout curtains, hairdryer and self controlled air-conditioning.

A long driveway sweeps from the main gates to the hotel entrance. At the towering porte cochère, cars are valet parked as guests make their way into the lobby.

Lyrath Estate offers premier conferencing facilities and has a stellar record as an event venue for international and domestic corporations.

The Yew Restaurant serves the best breakfast and dinner in Kilkenny with unrivalled views of Lady Charlottes manicured gardens.

The Grill & Bar is located on the mezzanine level at Lyrath Estate offering views of both the Atrium foyer and the expansive Estate parklands.

Complimentary uncapped high-speed Wi-Fi access throughout the hotel.

A mere 9 minute drive to one of Ireland's famous medieval castles, thirteenth century Kilkenny Castle.
